COMPLAINT

COMES NOW Plaintiff Longeviti, LLC ("Longeviti") and brings this Complaint against Defendant MVB Bank, Inc. ("MVB").

1. Longeviti is headquartered in Sterling, Virginia and provides consulting services, national security solutions, and language services to the government and commercial entities.
2. MVB is Longeviti's bank.
3. Longeviti makes payroll from its bank account at MVB.
4. On June 22, 2022, MVB sent Brandon Long, Longeviti's CEO, a notice that his email address changed from blong@longevitillc.com to blong@longevitillc-microsoftonline.com.
5. Mr. Long responded to Natasha Hong, MVB's Northern Virginia Branch Operations Coordinator, and informed her that he did not request or make the change.
6. Ms. Hong responded that Mr. Long's email address had not changed.
7. Mr. Long read Ms. Hong's assurance that "your personal email address on our system has not changed" and took no further action.
8. A true and correct copy of the email chain is attached as Exhibit 1.

9. Unfortunately, Ms. Hong's statement was false because Mr. Long's email address changed from blong@longevitillc.com to blong@longevitillc-microsoftonline.com.
10. Malicious actors made this change.
11. Malicious actors then placed payment orders on June 22 and June 23, 23—totaling $550,000.
12. MVB accepted these payment orders without Longeviti's authorization.
13. Longeviti had never sent funds to these accounts (in Singapore), and the transfer amounts were the highest volume on the account statement, exceeding Longeviti's payroll.
14. MVB Bank failed to follow any procedure to prevent this fraud.
15. As a direct and proximate result of MVB acceptance of these payment orders, Longeviti is damaged in the amount of $550,000 plus interest.

COUNT I
(Violation of Virginia Code §§ 8.4A-201, et. seq.)

16. Under the UCC, if a receiving bank accepts a payment order issued in the name of its customer as sender which is not authorized then the bank "shall refund any payment of the payment order . . . and shall pay interest on the refundable amount . . ." Va. Code § 8.4A-204(a).
17. A bank can shift the risk of loss to their customers only through strict compliance with Section 8.4A-202(b) of the Virginia Code if the parties have agreed to a commercially reasonable security procedure that the bank followed in good faith.
18. Here, it is unknown whether MVB will raise Section 8.4A-202(b) as a defense. Regardless, MVB: (a) allowed an email change from blong@longevitillc.com to blong@longevitillc-microsoftonline.com; (b) failed to take corrective action after Mr. Long stated in writing that he did not make or request the change; (c) reassured Longeviti that there had been no change; (d) accepted unauthorized payment orders from malicious actors; (e) failed to notify and confirm with Longeviti the payment orders; (f) failed to exercise basic security procedures despite evidence of fraud; and (g) failed to reject, stop, cancel, or recall the orders.

WHEREFORE, Longeviti is entitled to: (1) a judgment in its favor and against MVB for a full refund of the net outstanding balance of the fraudulent payment orders executed on June 22 and June 23, 2022, plus interest under Virginia Code § 8.4A-204(a).

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Longeviti prays for judgment in its favor against MVB Bank:

- A. Granting Longeviti judgment on Count I;
- B. Granting Longeviti compensatory damages of $550,000 plus interest running from June 22 and June 23, 2022, representing a full refund of the two unauthorized payment orders;
- C. Granting such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

Demand for Jury Trial

Longeviti demands trial by jury.

Hi Brandon,

Your personal email address on our system has not changed.

This notice was automatically sent because the new online admin Richard Barrera logged in online this morning and he changed that email address for Longeviti.

Kind Regards,
